TCTA disappointed by Texas Supreme Court ruling on school finance

AUSTIN, May 13, 2016 — The Texas Classroom Teachers Association is disappointed in today's Texas Supreme Court ruling to uphold the school funding system.

We believe it is clear that our public school system is underfunded and inequitable. The tension between performance expectations and inadequate resources for schools is not going to go away because of this decision. For the millions of Texas schoolchildren, parents and teachers who deserve better, we hope legislators will heed the court's suggestion to "seize this urgent challenge."

When the Legislature convenes in January, lawmakers must make significantly improving education funding a priority, so that schools have the resources to match the increasing expectations and challenges of educating this state's diverse population.
